

ON THE OLYMPIA.

Many Spectators Visit Flagship of Admiral Dewey.

FATIGUED BY RECEPTIONS.

The Amenities Consume Strength of the Noted Hero.

PRESENTATION OF THE MEDALS.

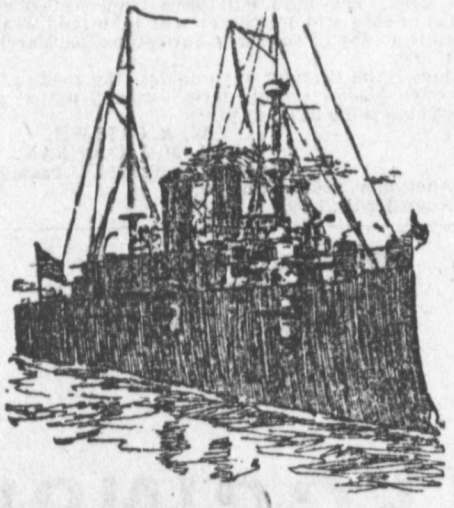

The Men Who Participated in the Naval Battle at Manila Are Given Badges of Honor Voted to Them by Congress.

New York, Sept. 28.—Admiral Dewey was considerably fatigued by his rounds of visits and receptions and did not rise until later than usual.

He breakfasted with Flag Lieutenant Brumby at 7:30 and then remained in his quarters attending to some of his mail which has been accumulating very rapidly since he came into the bay on Tuesday.

There was a large crowd of sightseers out early in excursion boats, launches and rowboats, and they became very enthusiastic when "at colors" was sounded and the officers and crew gathered on the decks of the various warships with a half dozen bands playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

After finishing his correspondence Admiral appeared on the quarter deck and paced up and down for a constitutional. At that time there were a score of yachts around the flagship. The people on the excursion steamers and on the yachts cheered wildly at the first sight of the admiral and he was kept busy bowing in return.

According to the weather bureau at Washington, there is bad weather in store for the naval parade.

Battery B of Cincinnati, which arrived to take part in the parade, is living in the cars in which it arrived in the Jersey Central yards in Jersey City. They have two sleeping cars and a baggage car which is utilized as a kitchen. They brought all of their trappings with them, but will hire horses in New York to drag the four Gatling guns.

They expect to have a fifth gun arrive from New Haven in time to be used. There are 40 men with the battery under command of Lieutenant Patten.

The Indianapolis light battery arrived over the Pennsylvania road with 60 men and five guns. They are under the command of Captain J. P. Curtis. This battery served in the Porto Rican campaign. The members of the battery expect to occupy the train they travelled in during their stay here.

Medal Presentation.

The 350 men who fought under Dewey at Manila were presented on board the Olympia with the bronze medals awarded them by congress. Before general quarters was sounded all visitors were excluded from the ship, and launches and boats were not permitted to come near the gangways.

Captain Lamberton made the presentations, pinning a medal on the breast of each man as his name was called. The medals bear the admiral's face in relief. Admiral Dewey's Chinese servants were also decorated. Rear Admiral Howison was an early visitor to the Olympia, and the boatloads of visitors had the gratification of hearing Admiral Dewey's voice. It was while Admiral Howison was leaving that Admiral Dewey shouted with all his lungs:

"Henry, what about that dinner?" "Oh," replied Rear Admiral Howison, "I forgot it and I am going elsewhere."

"Never mind," said Admiral Dewey, "sorry I mentioned it."

A boatload of women attracted the admiral's attention and catching sight of a flaxen-haired little boy dressed in sailor clothes in the bow of the boat he invited the party on board and devoted several minutes speaking to the little chap.

Rear Admiral Howison said that the Chicago would appear in the naval parade, but that he would not take precedence over Admiral Sampson, the Chicago being assigned the last place in the line.

The committee from Washington reached the Olympia at 11 a. m. The tug bearing the party first called at the New York and got Rear Admiral Sampson. As the tug left the New York for the Olympia, the flagship fired a major general's salute. Admiral Dewey, Captain Lamberton and Flag Lieutenant Brumby received the committee. Admiral Dewey grasped the hand of Major General Miles as he stepped aboard and said: "Am glad to see you, general."

The admiral took the committee into his cabin. The committee remained on board three-quarters of an hour.

When the committee from Washington reached the Olympia each member was cordially greeted by Admiral Dewey, but the warmest greetings were for the admiral's life-long friend, Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont. The party went to the cabin where the committee presented the program for the Washington celebration and the admiral expressed his entire satisfaction with it. Mr. Pruden presented an invitation to a dinner from the president and Admiral Dewey accepted it.

First Admiral's Flag.

Commander George W. Baird who sailed with Farragut and Dewey in the West Gulf squadron in 1861 unrolled a package which he had carefully guarded all the way to the Olympia, and displaying a faded blue admiral's ensign upon which was stitched four white stars, he said to Admiral Dewey: "I wish to present to you the first admiral's flag ever 'broken out' in the navy of this country. That grand old admiral whose name and memory all so reverently hoisted this ensign upon the good ship Hartford before New Orleans and afterwards on the Franklin; and since it came down from that masthead it has never been whipped by the wind or worn by the elements. You, the worthy successor of that great admiral, whose tactics you so successfully followed a short while ago, I deem the proper person for Farragut's mantle to fall upon."

This flag was made by Quartermaster Knowles out of a blue "number" flag when Farragut was first made a rear admiral. Two white stars were stitched on it. When Farragut was made an admiral two more stars were sewed on it.

Admiral Dewey was deeply affected and tears were in his eyes as he gazed at the souvenir. It was several moments before he could find his voice. Finally he said: "I'll fly it, I'll fly it at the masthead, I'll fly it in the parade, and when I strike my admiral's flag this will be the flag I shall strike."

This was the most impressive scene that has occurred on the Olympia since her arrival in this port, and for some time no one spoke. The silence was broken by Dewey who called his Chinese steward and ordered a case of champagne.

Admiral Dewey and his officers and men on the Olympia were formally welcomed to the state of New York by Governor Roosevelt.

TOWN OF PORAC TAKEN

After a Brief Battle the Filipinos Flee From the Place.

FIVE AMERICANS ARE KILLED.

Two Columns of Soldiers Under General MacArthur United at That Point According to Program—Other News.

Manilla, Sept. 28.—General MacArthur entered Porac after half an hour's fighting.

The American loss was slight and the insurgent loss is not known. The enemy fled northward. When the Americans entered the town they found it practically deserted.

The attacking party moved on Porac in two columns. The Ninth infantry with two guns from Santa Rita, was commanded by General Wheeler, and the Thirty-sixth infantry under Colonel Bell, with one gun, accompanied General MacArthur from San Antonio.

Both columns struck the town at 9 o'clock and opened a brisk fire which was replied to by the enemy for half an hour. Then the insurgents fled and the Americans marched over their trenches and took possession of the place. Just before the fight Smith's command at Angeles made a demonstration by firing artillery up the railroad track.

Liscum reported one casualty and Bell reported four men of his regiment wounded. The artillery did not have any men injured.

The movement was a strategical success and resulted in the possession of Porac and the clearing of several miles of country thereabouts. The two columns, one from Santa Rita and the other from San Antonio, united before Porac according to program, stretching around the country for some miles.

The insurgents are estimated to have numbered 600 men. Ten dead Filipinos were found and the captain and commissary of Mascarnos command were taken prisoners.

The American loss is five killed, but there were many prostrations from heat.

The Englishmen from the insurgent lines report that the Filipinos at Bamban have 7,000 new Japanese rifles.

Movement on Porac.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The movements of Generals MacArthur, Wheaton and Wheeler, on Porac, as reported by cable from Manilla, is what the war department has been anticipating for the last fortnight. The generals plans of this movement are known to the officials, but they have refused to give out dispatches on this subject, for fear the enemy would profit by the information. The rainy weather has delayed the movement. It is known to the war department that a considerable force of the enemy is in the vicinity. Porac is situated 14 miles from Bacolor, and has a population of 8,500.

Secretary's Statistics.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Interest at the first session of the Pan-Presbyterian alliance was centered in a statistical report presented by the Rev. Dr. G. D. Mathews, general secretary, and in a paper on "The History of the Work of the Alliance for the First Quarter Century," read by Secretary Mathews. The report showed that the alliance represents about 5,000,000 communicants throughout the world and the attending congregations aggregating nearly 25,000,000 people.

President Schurman's Speech.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 28.—President Jacob G. Schurman, in his address at the opening of the scholastic year of Cornell university, spoke at considerable length on the subject of national expansion. Mr. Schurman was president of the committee sent to the Philippine islands to investigate the subject of the civil government of the archipelago. Fears For a Tug.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The Tug McCarthy, bound from Chicago to Toledo was caught in a gale on Lake Michigan between the straits of Green Bay and it is feared went down. The McCarthy had a scow and dredge in tow and was in consort with the tug Andrew Green. The latter tug lost her bows during the storm and put into Mackinaw city for safety. There is a possibility that the McCarthy found shelter at one of the small islands.

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—The St. Louis Transit company filed a statement with the secretary of state at Jefferson City, showing an increase of capital from $3,000,000 to $20,000,000 and an increase in the number of directors from 3 to 11.

RAN ASHORE.

Wreck of Steamer Scotsman In Straits of Belle Isle.

Heath Point, Que., Sept. 28.—The overdue steamer Scotsman is ashore in the straits of Belle Isle. The steamer Montfort, carrying 200 of her passengers, has passed in.

A Relief Train.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—The local agent of the Dominion line has received information that the steamer Montfort has 250 passengers of the steamer Scotsman which is ashore on the straits of Belle Isle and the agents think this number will include all the passengers. A special train will be sent to Ramouski to take them off. This will be a sort of a relief train, for it is not understood that there is not sufficient food on board the Montfort to satisfy the rescued people. It seems that the accident to the Scotsman was due to an error on the part of the officers who made a mistake about the new light in the straits of Belle Isle. It is expected that the vessel will be a total wreck. The Scotsman sailed from Liverpool for this port on Sept. 14.

He Would Use Dynamite.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A new temperance society, the Young People's Christian Temperance union, came into being here. It had a somewhat anarchistic birth. The delegate from Missouri, William R. Keene of Kansas City, advocated the use of dynamite in spreading temperance doctrines by blowing up distilleries and breweries, declaring that violence would furnish the only means by which the new society could accomplish its purpose. The other delegates did not agree with his opinions. Committees on constitution and rules were appointed.

SERVING OUT RIFLES.

All Preparations to Take the Field Are Made at Pretoria.

TRANSVAAL IS NOT ALONE.

Volksraad of the Orange Free State After Careful Deliberation Decides to Cast Their Lot With Boers.

London, Sept. 28.—The decision of the Volksraad of the Orange Free state to join the Transvaal in the event of hostilities, although fully expected, is the leading news, and will naturally stiffen the Boers' independent attitude.

The raad's resolution has made the brotherhood of arms between the Transvaal and the Orange Free state, of which hitherto there was only a strong probability, an absolute certainty, and the British will have to face the situation.

Intense excitement continues to prevail at Pretoria where apparently it is believed that there is no escape from war. The committee appointed to consider the matter reported as to what officials are necessary to carry on the government in the event of war and fixing their salaries.

The field cornet at Pretoria is again serving out rifles and all preparations are being made to take the field.

An Englishman named Robertson has been arrested at Johannesburg, charged with high treason. He is alleged to have enlisted recruits for the imperial light horse.

The burghers are getting uneasy at the movements of British troops between Ladysmith and Laings Nek, and especially at Glencoe and Dundee. The nominal reason for the concentration is the protection of the Dundee coal fields; but the burghers shrewdly suspect that the real reason is the formation of a force which will advance across the Transvaal frontier at Vryheid, as soon as war is declared.

The Boers do not intend to be caught napping and are now massing around Vryheid, not, however, merely as a protective measure, but to be prepared. Unless the British reinforcements across the border cease, they will make a dash in force through a portion of Zululand, crossing the Buffalo river, and then, seizing the railroad, cut it off, which would not only interrupt the British lines of communication, but would seriously interfere with a forward movement. In order to watch this portion of the railroad exposed to a Boer incursion, a British post will be established at Rorke's drift.

A British infantry detachment with some engineers has arrived at DeAar, southwest of the Orange Free state, and an important railroad junction. Extensive fortifications will be thrown up there and the town will be made the base of operations for that side against the Orange Free state or the Transvaal. More troops will shortly arrive at De Aar.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY has again shown his cloven foot to everyone with eyes to see in the matter of sending Admiral Schley into exile, as it were, and giving Sampson a fresh position of honor.

A PRESIDENT of the United States can be just as small on occasions as any ordinary individual. It doesn't make a small man great to be President, very truthfully says a writer, and the writer might have added that a small man's littleness becomes more conspicuous when he assumes a big position.

SCHLEY's winning that naval battle at Santiago was the only thing that could have kept Sampson from being court-martialed for having taken the most powerful vessel of the fleet, the New York, away from the harbor blockade, thus crippling the fleet unnecessarily; yet we see Sampson receiving fresh honors at the hands of the administration, while Schley is humiliated on any and every occasion.

WHAT THE TRUST DOES.

A prominent Maysville firm handling window glass is in receipt of the following:

CINCINNATI, September 26, 1899.
 Dear Sirs: All expectation of the window glass factories starting immediately has been abandoned since the formation of the window glass trust last week. There will be no glass made until the last of December which means higher prices and a scarcity. Our stock is well assorted and we would be pleased to name you prices. Yours truly,
 THE IRA D. WASHBURN CO.

The claim of Republicans that the primary object of trusts is to reduce prices is absurd in face of the actual workings of such combines. "All expectation of the window glass factories starting immediately has been abandoned since the formation of the trust," writes this Cincinnati firm. What's the object of the combine? They want to produce a scarcity of window glass and that "means higher prices." In the meantime the trust gang don't care a snap how the workmen in these glass factories eke out a living. The sole object is to exact from every one who has need of glass an exorbitant price for the stock now on hand. The people foot the bill, and the gang of robbers in the trust are enriched by the extortion.

A GENTLEMAN

Sojourning in Brooklyn some years ago desired on a Sabbath morning to hear the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preach. He asked a little urchin on the street to direct him to Mr. Beecher's church. The little fellow said: "Mister, do you see that crowd?" "I do," answered the gentleman. "Well, mister, follow it, and you'll get there."

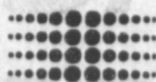

IF YOU WANT THE BEST IN CLOTHING,

Furnishing Goods and Men's and Boys' SHOES, follow the crowd and you'll land in the right place. Were it not that we are awfully bashful we would tell you of the compliments showered upon us by the many who have looked over our stock. Our windows, to some extent give you an idea what we have. In passing our house, take a peep. You will see stuff that will interest you.

We are sometimes asked: "Do people read and believe your advertisements?" Well! If you would have looked in on us in the past ten days (since the weather turned cool) you would have concluded that our advertisements and our merchandise are credited, for notwithstanding we employ more salesmen than all the other Clothing houses in Maysville combined, we were unable to wait on everybody. Mothers, we want you to see our

COUNTY ATTORNEY O'DONNELL

Wins His Case Against Non-Residents For Failing to List Lands For Taxation.

County Attorney O'Donnell has received from the Attorney General's office the following very complimentary letter: FRANKFORT, KY., September 23 1899.

Mr. Frank P. O'Donnell, County Attorney, Maysville, Ky.—My Dear Sir: I send you herewith opinion reversing lower court judgment in the case of Commonwealth vs. Toncray. Allow me to congratulate you on your successful prosecution of the appeal. With best wishes, I remain very truly yours, W. H. THATCHER.

The opinion of the Court of Appeals, by Judge White, is here given in full:

The appellee was indicted in the Mason Circuit Court charged with a failure to file a descriptive list of his lands, he being a non-resident. A trial resulted in a verdict and judgment of acquittal and the Commonwealth appeals.

The appellant asked and the court refused to give instruction "A" as follows: "The court instructs the jury that if from all the evidence they believe beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant A. J. Toncray was on or before the 15th day of August, 1898, the owner of land wholly or partly in Mason County, and failed on or before the 15th day of August, 1898, to file a descriptive list under oath with the Mason County Clerk as stated in the indictment, he, the defendant being at that time the owner of the said land and a non-resident of Mason County, they will find the defendant guilty and fix his punishment at a fine of $100."

We are of opinion that this instruction contains the law and should have been given. We are also of opinion that instruction 1 and 2 given were error. It is not necessary that the whole tract should lay in one county. The list should be filed of land in a county, as for the purpose of taxation a county line is a boundary of a tract. In this case the county line makes of this twenty acres two tracts, one in Mason and one in Lewis County.

Nor is it a defense to an indictment for failing to file a descriptive list that the land was in fact listed and the owner paid the taxes due, as the jury was told in instruction No. 2.

This court in the case of Commonwealth vs. Ellis, 10 Ky. Law Rep. 341, held under a statute very similar to this one that where an owner had gone in the county and in person had listed his land for taxation, the object of the statute had been complied with and that this action would exonerate him from the penalty.

In this case the appellee testified that he did not list the land for taxes, but only that he paid the taxes. This in our opinion is not even a substantial compliance with the statute, and is no defense.

Wherefore the judgment is reversed and cause remanded for a new trial and for further proceedings consistent herewith.

A. E. Cole & Son for appellee.
W. S. Taylor, Ed. Daum, Frank P. O'Donnell, for appellant.

A prominent merchant declares "that the money expended for advertising is the same as if placed on interest." This is the proper view to be taken of advertisements placed in a popular newspaper. Not only is there a valuable return resulting from the profits in wares which may be specified in a merchant's business announcement, but the additional sales made extend and more firmly establish the advertiser's trade. Thus this great medium of communication with the public enables the tradesman to enlarge his sphere of operations, and as a consequence to assume a more important standing in the commercial world. The returns for the merchant's outlay in advertising far exceed in value the interest that would be received on the amount of money so expended.—Philadelphia Record.
